WHAT IS LUCHA LIBRE?

Lucha Libre is a high-flying, acrobatic form of professional Mexican wrestling recognized by its colorful masks, rapid-fire sequences, and dramatic “good vs. evil” storytelling. Originating in the early 1900s, it focuses more on agility and complex submission holds than, for example, American wrestling.

Key Aspects of Lucha Libre include:

Masks (Máscaras) are used to create a distinct persona. Masks are integral, often representing ancient deities or animals.

During matches, luchadores execute characteristic high-flying attacks and llaves (intricate submissions). Matches can be won by pinning the opponent to the mat for the count of three, making him submit, knocking him out of the ring for a predetermined count (generally twenty), or by disqualification.

Luchadores are divided into técnicos (good guys/rule followers) and rudos (bad guys/rule breakers).

Seven luchadores are featured on the New Mexico Lottery Scratchers: Hija de Gatubela™, L.A. Park®, Último Dragón™, Mascarita Dorada™, Solar™, Tinieblas Jr.™ and Alushe™.
